Geo. Williams requests in this issue the return of borrowed books. We have always thought that the favor of the loan in all fairness imposed a return. Don't borrow books unless you intend to promptly return them.
The Globe Brewery is always sure to make a beer that's good and pure. You can drink it day and night—it always gives an appetite.
Do not delay, if you feel weary, to call for it at Mrs. Geary's.
We return thanks to our brethren of the press for the many complimentary notices of the HERALD under its new management. From the similarity of expression, it is very evident that Virginia Editors think and write alike in hot weather.
If you want to see something very low in the shape of good harness, call at the harness store of A. J. Dysart & Co. They propose to sell good harness and saddles as low as some people sell indifferent harness and saddles. Go and see for yourselves.
Some of our farmers have threshed their wheat, and the turnout is discouraging. One crop where the straw was ample for over twenty bushels turned about 13 bushels per acre, and other fields with heavy straw turned out about 10 bushels per acre.—Washington.
Mr. J. W. Miller sowed one head of oats and threshed one quart, he sowed the quart next year and raised one bushel, he sowed the bushel the next year and raised 20 bushels, he sowed the 20 bushels and raised 1,000 bushels, says the Warrenton Virginian.
An attempt was made last Saturday night in Harrisonburg, to burn the building which is occupied by Messrs. Welsh and Carver as their residence. An egg-thrower was set against the rear part of the house and then set on fire. The fire department extinguished the flames before any damage was done.
We have received a request to publish a notice of Sunday School Picnic at Chapel Grove, on Saturday July 29th, but as no name is given, we do not know whether it is a genuine notice or not. Always send your name when you send anything to be published. Without the name, we cannot insert notices.
Next to the Free Silver question nothing excites so much interest, at this time in our neighboring county of Rockingham as the decision of the judges in the late horse contest at Harrisonburg on the Fourth of July. As soon as the question is finally settled, it is thought that business will be resumed.
We have received the catalogue of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College for 1932-3. There were last year 177 students in attendance. This is one of the best colleges in the State for students who desire a practical, business education. See advertisement in another column.
At the Crimora mines in Augusta county, the ten-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Wright attempted to ride a vicious mule. He was thrown, and dragged several hundred yards with one foot hanging in the stirrup, the mule kicking at every step. We regret to learn that Mr. Jas. R. Baker, of Edinburg, is very sick, with typhoid fever.
Rev. Geo. E. Henderlite, late pastor of the Presbyterian church here, will preach in that church on Sunday.

Mr. John Gill, an former resident of this place, but now an inmate of the Soldiers Home at Hampton, Va., is visiting his brother, Mr. Geo. W. Gill, of this place.

Mr. L. Wagner and wife, of Richmond, Va., are at Mr. W. T. Williams' for the heated term. Just as soon as this paper gets out every day in the North Fork of the Shenandoah will go into hiding.
Mr. F. M. Shaffer, one of our well-known citizens, whose long and severe illness has caused his many friends so much anxiety, is very sick at this writing, but slight hopes for recovery or even improvement in his condition.
Mr. D. F. Samm, a former well-known citizen and native of Sammesville, this county, but for sometime a resident of Washington, D. C., has recently invented and had patented a Terra Cotta siding for frame houses that must prove of great value and usefulness. It is about three fourths of an inch thick, and as it is enameled will require no painting, and is indestructible from the effects of wear and weather. It is nailed to the sheathing, and the cost will be but little more than frame and far less than brick. Persons knowing of or owning any deposits of fine clay in this county will find it to their interest to communicate with Mr. Samm.

Summer Boarders.
Woodstock has quite a number of summer boarders, who have sought this place for rest during the heated term, but the number is not as large as it should be. Our attractions are greater than those of other towns who have a much larger number of visitors and boarders, but those attractions have never been made known as they should have been. Our streets are well shaded, our sidewalks are well paved, no town in Virginia has better sidewalks, and our water is pure and delightful. We have an excellent supply of well water besides a number of springs from which there is a constant flow of the purest crystal water. This summer, for the first time, attention has been directed to the improvement of the old Indian springs on the edge of the corporate limits and about one-half mile south of the Court House. Here there are four springs close together, from which constantly flow a copious supply of excellent cold water. The good bordering these streams has been trimmed up and a large pavilion erected near the springs. The distance from the railroad is but several hundred yards. Two roads have been opened, one is a continuation of Water street and the other branches off from, and runs at right angles to, the Valley turnpike. A short distance from these springs is an old Indian mound, which was examined about two years ago by Prof. Gerard Fowke, of the bureau of ethnology, of the Smithsonian Institute. Besides the skeletons of some of the Indians, he found some of the trinkets were worn by the red men, before the foot of the white man had pressed the soil of this beautiful Shenandoah Valley.
About ten miles from the town are the Seven Fountains where seven varieties of water are to be found in a circle whose diameter is but a few yards. On the way to the Seven Fountains the visitor passes over the Massanutten mountain, from the summit of which can be obtained a view of the Shenandoah Valley, worth hundreds of miles of travel to see. About five miles northwest of Woodstock are Kern's springs, where there is an abundance of chalybeate water and a spring whose water is similar to that of the celebrated Capon Springs, and whose medical qualities have been known and highly valued for years. About eight miles from town in the same direction are Bond's Springs, where our grand-mothers and grand-fathers used to congregate over a half century ago. The virtues of the Poison Spring, at this place, were fully described in books written fifty years ago, and is now highly appreciated by all who are acquainted with its qualities. A few miles north of Bond's Springs, down the beautiful Cedar Creek Valley, are some springs whose waters compare favorably with any in the State. Among other attractions of the town we should mention that the North branch of the Shenandoah flows within one mile, where the lovers of piscatorial sports can get their full of pleasure by angling for the black bass and other varieties of fish which the stream abounds. Altogether Woodstock, in addition to her pleasant society, and church facilities, possesses attractions for the summer visitor equal to those of any town in Virginia. All we need is a little attention given to this subject by our citizens and our streets would be crowded with summer guests, who in addition to the life which would be imparted to our town, would leave no small amount of currency to be distributed among all classes. Let the citizens unite in a movement in this direction, and while helping themselves, they would help all others.

Death of Jno. L. Brady, Jr.
It is with inexpressible sadness we record the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Jno. L. Brady, Jr., the popular and able editor of the Strasburg Virginian and News. The sad event occurred at his father's residence in Scottsville, Va., on Sunday afternoon, where he had gone on a short visit. Although suffering from chronic dyspepsia, he had greatly improved, and was expected back in a few days to his post on the Strasburg paper. But a few days before his death he was out on the streets of Scottsville.
Mr. Brady had been connected with a number of Virginia papers, and was a bright and witty writer. He was a polished gentleman, and during the eighteen months that he resided in Strasburg he made many warm friends. He was well known in this place where his death will be most sadly regretted.
Mr. Brady was a charter member and officer of Walter Scott Lodge, K. of P. of Strasburg, in which body he was very seriously and mourned. The resolution that that Lodge will appear in our next issue, having reached us too late for this.

The Lutheran Congregation of this place anticipate a large attendance at the convention of the Sunday Schools of the Virginia Synod of that denomination which will meet here on August 1st to 3d, closing with a reunion and Mass meeting on the Shenandoah Fair Grounds on the 4th. The congregation here are making extensive preparations to entertain the large numbers who will certainly be present, as these services promise to be an interesting event in the history of the Lutheran Sunday Schools of the Virginia Synod. A large number of the most prominent and able ministers of the different churches will be present and take part in the exercises. Excursion trains will be run from each end of the Valley to the Fair Grounds on August 4th, and an overflowing crowd will be present if the weather should prove favorable.

The New York young Ladies Base Ball Club, a nine composed of expert young lady players, will cross bats with the Woodstock Club on Monday afternoon next, July 24th, at 4 o'clock. The game will be played in Bushong's field, adjoining Indian Springs, the new park, on the south edge of town. The game will be an interesting one, as the ladies play ball with a vim that will give the Woodstock boys all they are looking for, and then some. Don't fail to see these handsome ladies bat the ball over the gable end of creation, and show their twinkling feet as they fly around the bases.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. J. H. Harman. John not only thinks a great deal about the ladies, but he has started a store for their special benefit; for they can go to Harman's and get a ready made meal at any time. He furnishes meat ready for the table, coffee, bread and ground, sugar, mustard, catsup, bread, of all kinds and for dessert the choicest fruits, cakes, ice cream, &c. For the gentlemen he has tobacco, cigars, snuff, &c., &c. He gives a cordial invitation to all to call to see him.

We hope to see the manufacture of the Little Bonanza Separator commenced in this place at an early day. It is one of the most valuable machines ever put on the market.

The Board of Visitors of the W. L. Asylum, at Staunton, met on Tuesday and promoted Dr. J. S. DeJarnett to physician of the male department in place of Dr. Page deceased. Dr. Hugh W. Henry, late of Baltimore, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Dr. DeJarnett.

We believe we can safely say to your correspondent for the democrats of this community, the nominee, whoever he may be, whether Mr. Brennan, Mr. Hoover, or some one else, will be substantially supported by the party at this place.

TEX DEMOCRATS.

NEW MARKET NEWS.
DEAR HERALD:—Copious rains have kept the season up to the previous standard, but between the showers the mercury hung in the 90s.
The Messrs. Henkel returned from the World's Fair last week perfectly delighted with their visit. They advise all to attend who can spare the time and means.
It was reported on Sunday evening last that one of New Market's belles had eloped. Further investigation of the report proved that she was only out buggy riding with her best fellow.
Cain Smith, a notorious colored man, was arrested last week by the town sergeant and locked in the town lock-up but escaped a few moments afterwards by pulling off a plank. He is now lurking in or near town and defies arrest, threatening to shoot on sight. It is to be hoped that he will yet be caught and the full benefit of the law administered.
Charles Eaton cut with a knife James and Charles Spitzer, on last Sunday morning, because the Spitzers were driving from their wheat field the fowls belonging to Eaton. James was terribly lacerated across the face, and Charles had the arteries of one arm cut in two. He will be maimed for life and the other disfigured. The parties above alluded to live about two miles South-west of this place, in Rockingham county, and their families have never entertained any good feelings for each other. Eaton was arrested and waived an examination before Justice Bachm, of Timberville, and was sent on to jail.
Mr. Miller rendered the necessary surgical attention, and we learn that they are doing as well as could be expected.

Rev. J. A. Snyder, during his usual discourses last Sabbath, called the attention of his hearers to the fact that his congregation was largely composed of ladies. He noted the fact that such was not the case at a base ball game, and a sale the day previous, but on the contrary was composed entirely of men, regardless of the fact that service was announced to be held in his church at the same time. We would infer from his remarks, and very truthfully, too, that sin is largely in the ascendancy in this community.

A cyclone base ball club has been organized here. Cyclone means to sweep everything before it. We understand they have, or will challenge the Edinburg club to battle with them at Quicksburg on 10th.

The Zirkle reunion will occur on August 10th, at Quicksburg. This promises to be the largest re-union of the kind ever held in this county, and will bring together one of the largest gatherings in the history of re-unions, on account of the immense number of persons who bear the name of Zirkle.

Prof. Kimler has made sale of his personal property, and will remove his family to Shepherdstown, W. Va., where he has been elected Principal of the Shepherdstown College. He leaves Thursday. The best wishes of our citizens go with him and his family to their new home.

Mr. T. L. Williamson has received his commission as postmaster and will take charge of the office to-day, (Thursday.)

We do not intend to enter personal controversies, but do propose to discuss men and matters when we can truthfully do so from an independent standpoint. We intended nothing personal in our last week's communication, but we endeavored to give the facts as we understood them, and we think we did.

More anon, OCCASIONAL.

[For the SHENANDOAH HERALD.]
We noticed a communication from New Market in your last issue, which seemingly appears to be from a democrat; but it is the belief here that it is from the pen of a bitter republican, as certainly no true democrat would be guilty of voicing the sentiments expressed in it.
This communication, even if from a democrat, is not calculated to do any good for the democratic party or either of the candidates it discusses. With regard to Mr. Hoover it states that, in the event of his nomination, he might possibly be elected by a narrow majority, and whilst it does pay him some slight compliment, it not only does Mr. Brennan a great injury but also a great injustice. As to the parties lying in ambush for the "Professors' scalp," it is enough to say that those parties are nothing more or less than the Republican party, and we would like to know the democrat for whose scalp they are not waiting.

We can very well understand why republicans should utter such warnings. The very fact that they make such unfavorable remarks and untimely predictions of certain defeat is an evidence that they see Mr. Brennan would make a successful candidate, and therefore they do what they can to convince democrats that he is not the man and thereby prevent his nomination.

POSSY HOLLER.
MR. EDITOR:—It seems to me that me and Saryan can't never get to a peaceful and quiet life no more. Now Saryan got a big bile on her nose. I told her friction does it from stickin' it in other people's business, and I wondered she had'nt one one her tongue. She didn't say much but the way the slow cut'er come out the door was enough to start me up to the Brook for some sake to draw it with. So I asked comsie Charlie K-ller what was the best kind, and he says you want to get some "one night corn cure," that is the thing. So I got it and started home, and I met a feller from the Fort with three dogs, and he wanted to sell them. I asked him what he wanted for the big bulldog, and he said he cost $75, but wheat was low and times hard over, there and he would take $25 for him, but no checks. So I told him I had a watch worth $100, but if he give me $10 to boot I'd trade. Call her even and it's a go, says he. All right, says I. So I took the dog and started home thinkin' how I'd please Saryan, cause old Saryan was dead and we had no dog. So soon as I got home I put him outside the gate and went in to put the salve on Saryan's nose, and just then she spied the dog. What in the thunder you bring that half-starved brenya fer, Neal Bazzard. I believe in my soul you are crazy. Why that dog will kill somebody, look how mean he looks, and I'll bet he's a rogue. Why, Saryan, that man says he'll dig 'tators, split kinden wood, hunt the bees' nests and go to the store same as a child. He paid $75 for him, I'll bet you'll have $75 more to pay for you have him a week. So I fed him and turned him out in the yard and sent to the spring. While I was gone cousin Hubert Ridenour come along and the dog after him and run him up a tree. Saryan heard him holler and started after the dog, but just as she got down there the dog started after her, and lord how she split for the house, and just as she got to the door the dog got a mouthful of her dress, and then he bopped me and he made right for me and he grabbed me by the leg. But I got hold of an old ax halve and wiped him a couple over the head what straightened him out. So I went in and found Saryan a layin' on the bed with her nose busted. That are stuff had drawn her nose 'round to her ear, and as she ran by the door she struck her bile and busted it. Things want' were agreeable in that I thought I would go out and see about my dog. Just as I got out to the fence I saw him goin' up the creek with Saryan's pig in his mouth. I hollered to him but I haint seen him nor the pig since. Well, I went back in the house and I found Bal Malinda Cleveland a cryin' and hollerin, and when I come to find out the matter, Saryan had laid that corn plaster on the shelf and hit had fed down Bal Malinda's back and drew all the skin off it. It's gone now, and I don't know where, but just as apt its on the baby and then there'll be hollerin. Well, I bought a lot of calico and the sewing society is a comin' down this week to make some wimmen's clothes and some shirts. Cousin Little Miley and cousin Phene Snarr, and cousin Kate Borden says they've been a wantin' to come down for a long time, but they bin so busy canning fruit. We got a brass band started up down in our holler. Mr. Albert McClanahan is the teacher. Mr. Geo. Miller and Mr. Booth are the leaders. Cousin Hubert Ridenour blows the bass horn and beats the drum. When they get to playin' it sounds like a flock of geese a runnin' through a flock of geese with an old cow now and then a belloven. But they are just beginnin'. Well, as news is scarce there haint much to say. The harvest is over and the crops are all good. Corn is lookin' well.

Mr. Andrew Jenkins, who cut his finger so terribly a couple weeks ago, is nearly well under the skillful treatment of Dr. J. M. Brown. Well I will close as Saryan wants me to make some waffle cakes and stay with the children while she goes up to cousin Maud Crabill's for her mother Hubbard pattern. She goes to make mother Washington flocks when the sewing circular come down.

You must come down to see us soon. Yours in respect, NEAL BEZZARD. P. S. Cousin Sam Miley told me uncle John Grabb had swapped for your paper. You must bring him down and introduce him to Saryan and the children.

A night blooming Cereus owned by Mr. W. E. Hite, of this place, bloomed on Tuesday night, two large and splendid flowers opening. They commenced unfolding about dusk and in a few hours were fully open showing the clear waxen white leaves and beautiful centre of hundreds of pale orange colored petals. These flowers were probably six inches in diameter and emitted a delicious fragrance. We learn that one of these plants belonging to Col. E. E. Stickley, also bloomed the same night.

He who will willfully refuse to pay an honest debt has no right to pose as an honest man. There are men—plenty of them—who unfortunately won't pay what they owe, but who desire to pay, and to this class our words do not apply, but where a man can pay and won't pay he ought to be made to pay. No matter what his profession might be, he cannot get into heaven.—Ez.

J. B. Wilson, 31 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooks Creek, claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Fine Trial Bottles at J. B. Schmitt's, Woodstock, and C. P. Hisey's, Edinburg, drug stores. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.00.
